

A photograph of a forest scene. In the foreground, there are several large, light-colored tree trunks, likely aspens, standing vertically. The ground is covered with fallen branches, logs, and some snow. In the background, there are more trees, including evergreens. Several bright pink markers are visible, tied to branches and trunks. The lighting suggests it's daytime, with sunlight filtering through the trees. The text "Federal 8-89-7 #1" is in the top right, "view from the east" is below it, and "11/8/2012" is in the bottom right.
