Deb,

This is a follow up to our telephone conversation today. The COGCC typically does contact the surface owner if there have been allegations of inappropriate disposal of exploration and production (E&P) waste on private properties. I apologize for this not occurring. You also informed myself today that this is an active operation under the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) and that there are educational and training (in particular safety) requirements prior to entering into an active operation that all personnel need to adhere to . I have forwarded this email to the SW COGCC Staff in addition to the BLM and La Plata County.

The COGCC has determined that the hydrovac waste observed to be disposed of at this location is NOT associated with E&P waste and we have closed Complaint 200397549. All documents associated with this complaint can be found under:
