

A large white spherical storage tank for methanol is mounted on a black metal frame. To its left is a blue steel drum, also on a frame, which serves as a secondary containment vessel. Both are situated in an open, arid area with a corrugated metal fence in the background. The sky is clear and blue. The ground is dry and dusty. A yellow hose is coiled on the ground near the blue drum. A black pipe runs horizontally across the background behind the tank.

methanol tank with no secondary containment or other BMPs to minimize migration if spill occurs.

02.09.2015 11:10