

Photo 1. View of western portion of the project area from the northwestern corner facing southward. Tall kochia debris is drying along the edges of the working area.

Photo 2. View of northern portion of the project area from the northwestern corner facing eastward.

Photo 3. View of dense jointed goatgrass (Aegilops cylindrica) from previous growing season in the western portion of the project area. Green vegetation beneath the dry matter is likely young jointed goatgrass crop.

Photo 4. View of the southern portion of the project area from the southwestern corner facing eastward. Area on the right edge of the photo is plowed and appears to be in agricultural use.

Photo 5. View of the eastern portion of the project area from the southeastern corner facing northward. Area on the right is plowed and appears to be in agricultural use.