1	Colorado Parks Wildlife (CPW) has a mapped Recovery and Conservation Water along Little Dry Creek, which contains some species of Eastern Plains native fish. Therefore, CPW recommends that the operator ensure that site development (and supporting features such as access roads) are located at least 300 feet from the edge of the edge of the riparian area (not center of creek). CPW appreciates the collaboration, as we strive for responsible energy development while protecting sensitive habitats. Should the operator have any questions and/or request a site visit with CPW, please contact CPWs Northeast Region Energy Liaison (Brandon Marett) at (303) 291-7327.	04/13/2018
