Date of Completion: 08/20/2020

Operator Comment: The "monitoring wells" noted in the inspection report are actually soil-gas extraction points. They were installed during the Prather Spring investigation around 2009. These are shallow 1/4-inch teflon tubes that were used to collect soil gas samples. These soil-vapor extraction points were installed to shallow depths of approximately 12

- 20 feet bgs. The Prather Spring matter was resolved several years ago, and the soil vapor points have not been used since and are no longer needed. The extraction points (surface cap and 1/4-inch teflon tubing) have been removed and backfilled.
