For the safety of the field personnel the well was constructed with the bradenhead access buried and currently below ground level. This method of well construction allowed the field personnel to access the well head without

Operator Comment: the use of stairs and platform, thereby minimizing the risk of falls and injuries and eliminating cellars that could result in injury to people and wildlife.

Locin wishes to comply with the revised Rules and Regulations quickly in a safe environment. Currently, due to the winter season, the ground around the wellheads and bradenhead access is covered with frozen soil. Any attempt to dig out the soil at this time will require additional effort other than an easy shovel or backhoe. We will need to use a chisel and be aggressive with the back hoe. This additional force necessary to dig out the bradenhead access will create an unsafe situation for the field personnel, contractors and the individual wells.

Therefore, we respectfully request time until May 31, 2021 to repair/revise the access to the bradenhead while insuring we protect the health and safety of the public and wildlife (near and long term).
