Vision will avoid rigging up before a 6I is approved in the future because I am here now and I have repeatedly made a point of asking the field to always notify me of ANY MIRU's at least 2 days ahead of time. We have been using a workover rig here lately for the other company and I am consistently putting in Form 42's for those MIRU's with a minimum of 2 days advanced notice. Rigs work can happen slower or faster, but we have actively been putting those in as soon as we know the next location.
